

8. What is the ARO's Policy for communicating with family members and other third parties?

Once a learner has disclosed sensitive personal information about his/her disability or learning difference, the college has a responsibility to maintain confidentiality with them. While we recognise that family members and other third parties may be concerned about the learner's college experience, any requests to discuss the nature of the learner's support arrangements, exam accommodations or programme progression will only be agreed to with the learner's written consent.